

The Martin Janovsky Show

Travel with Martin around the world as he takes you on a musical journey through different countries and styles. From ragtime to classical medleys, the sound of the sweet French accordion to the contemporary piano hits of the 20th century with a touch of melancholy Andrew Lloyd Webber classics, Martin's repertoire is accessible to any listener. Martin's misunderstanding of the English language lets him weave his life story full of humour and satire as a connection between the songs. His routine is developed by giving new perspective to old sayings.

Janovsky's 'clean', non-offensive humour has made his one man musical comedy show a hit with audiences of all ages.

Martin Janovsky is originally from Prague in the former Republic of Czech. He graduated from the Prague Conservatory in 1978 and spent 2 years at the Academy of Music before touring Europe extensively, first with the Prague Big Band and later, with his own trio.

After a stint in a Paris Jazz club Janovsky moved to Canada and launched Hipcheck. Two years later things began to pick up when Janovsky and his band Hipcheck were asked to be the house band at the Saskatchewan Pavilion at Expo '86 in Vancouver. While at Expo Martin formed some long lasting musical connections, among them Billy Andrusco and singer Henri Loiselle.

His association with both men continued when he returned Saskatchewan and performances with Henri Loiselle and The Billy Andrusco Trio were soon added to Janovsky's already busy schedule with Hipcheck. He soon found himself performing across Western Canada.

Throughout his busy schedule as a performer, Martin made time to compose. He has written music for The Jeux Canada Games, The Grand opening of Saskatchewan Place, The 1991 Canadian Junior Figure Skating Championships and the 1992 Saskatchewan Summer Games. He also started Janovsky Studios to teach and tutor students in Classical and Jazz music
